International Relations

MANY eminent people in the political and economic spheres have for years been endeavoring to place before a waiting and anxious world constructive ideas for establishing friendly international relations on a secure and practical basis. But, so far, none of the material methods which have been experimented with have succeeded in breaking down the fear of aggression, or the thoughts of bitterness in the human heart. That these fundamental errors need to be overcome is certain, if the world is to experience the lasting peace and prosperity which humanity has so long desired.

That there is a sure way of solving this most important of all world problems is unquestionable, since there is no unsolvable difficulty. The Apostle John in profound yet simple language, which a child can understand, clearly shows us this way. Tenderly he pleads (I John 4:7, 8), "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love."

Some may say that love is all very well in its very intimate place between friends and relatives, but of what effectual use is it between nations? Further, it is sometimes argued that ideals, ambitions, and characteristics vary so widely in each country, that it is impossible for even the closest neighbor to understand another nation's differing needs and aims, and how to deal with them.

But are we not conclusively told that love, understood in its relation to Love, God, can overcome all barriers, and form that lasting link necessary for world peace? It is the unselfish desires and united aims of men which break down the temporary obstacles of language and material tradition. In the first century of the Christian era Paul discerned this fact, for he wrote, "Whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away." But "charity [love] never faileth" (I Corinthians 13:8). . . .

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, writes on page 340 of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "One infinite God, good, unifies men and nations; constitutes the brotherhood of man; ends wars; fulfils the Scripture, 'Love thy neighbor as thy-

THESE ARE LIFESAVERS

THAT'S what Consumers Information calls these workers in a Pittsburgh glass plant, who are testing and finishing non-shatterable glass for use in automobiles. It is explained that one of the greatest hazards in auto accidents used to be flying glass, which was the most common cause of injury. Now all American cars are equipped with the shatter-proof variety, developed by American industrial research experts especially for this purpose, and the saving of many lives is the result. The man shown above keeps a constant vigil with his pyrometer, to assure proper melting conditions. The girl at the left is polishing the rough edges of a car window.

BOOSTING!

Boost your city, boost your friend,
Boost the Lodge which you attend,
Boost the street on which you're dwelling,
Boost the go ods which you are selling.
Boost the people round about you—
Possibly they could do without you,
But success will quicker find them,
If they know that you're behind them.
Boost for every forward movement,
Boost for every new improvement,
Boost the stranger and the neighbor,
Boost the man for whom you labor;
Cease to be a chronic knocker,
Cease to be a progress blocker,
And if Menlo Park you'd better,
Boost her to the final letter!

These delegates are from the 13 Posts which make up the 26th district.

The local delegates are M. L. Cook, M. Johnson, Si Berry and W. Whitney.

Frank Eliis is in charge of the refreshments.

Bill Cook has a plan for a Fishing Deerby to be held at Half Moon Bay that should appeea to all sportsmen now that the weeather has moderated and spring is here.

A number of Legionnaires and their friends attended the Auxiliary card party held in the hall Tuesday night of which Mildred McClure was the chairman. It was a most enjoyable evening and refreshments were served.

CURB NUMBER PRINTING IS NEARING COMPLETION

The task of providing uniform curb numbers for Menlo Park's business and residences is nearing completion as J. S. Odeor and Geo. P. Ericgson, World War veterans who are doing the work moved into new residential sections of the city today.

Under the system used by the veterans, numbers of each home and business location are clearly marked on the curb making the number visible to motorists and pedestrians on the opposite side of the street. The number is painted black on an aluminum background.

Two More Countries Will Show At Fair

Two more colorful Pacific lands were added this week to the roster of foreign countries taking part in the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition when New Zealand and Johore officially announced their intention to participate.

Johore, tiny but fabulously wealthy tropical empire on the southern tip of the Malay Peninsula, will erect its own building on Treasure Island in the form of a Malay Hut, according to Leland W. Cutler, president of the Exposition, who received a personal letter from the Sultan of Johore advising him of that country's plans. In a bid for tourist trale, Johore's exhibit will stress the tropical granduer of Malayan scenery and the thrilling sport of big game hunting.

While details of the New Zealand exhibit have not yet been worked out, it is understood that many of that country's imporant activities will be illustrated by animated models and dioramas. The possibility also of their sending a Maori village to Treasure Island in 1939 has been widely discussed and has received much favorable comment in the New Zealand press. The Maoris, aboriginals of New Zealand, are said to be the finest type native found in the South Pacific, and a village of these people, bringing with them their strange and colorful songs, dances and customs, would show the picturesqueness of their country, many New Zealanders believe.

Fourteen foreign countries have now announced participation through diplomatic channels, and twenty-four others have given a verbal or unofficial assurance that they will exhibit at the coming Pagaent of the Pacific, bringing he total number of foreign countries to be presented to thirty-eight. Other possibilities as yet uncertain, point to exhibits by a total of fifty nations by February 18, 1939, opening date of the Exposition.

The Rev. Father Maurice O'Brien, assistant pastor of the Church of the Nativity in this city, has left for his old home in Ireland for a visit with his mother.

The Menlo Park Hardware is expanding, indicating that business is getting better. Mr. Ryan has taken the store in the rear of his highway store and facing on Santa Cruz avenue, where he is displaying refrigerators, ranges and other goods to delight the housewife.

Menlo Lions Club Given Charter At Rousing Banquet

The Menlo Park Lions Club received its charter from the International Association during a dinner meeting at the Oakwood Inn, last Saturday night. The club now officially organized has embarked immediately on its mission of good fellowship and community service.

The dinner meeting preceding the presentation of the charter was called to order by First Vice-President Thos. F. Cuff of the Menlo Park Club, who also made the address of welcome to the assemblage.

The toastmaster, Clarence Kay, of the Sunnyvale Club, was then introduced by Verne Lovejoy, president of the sponsoring Palo Alto Club, and visiting Lions and guests, including Larry Salter, field organizer of the Internation Association were introduced. The charter was then presented by Don Leidig, District Governor from Hayward, in the course of an inspirational address on Lionism. President Larry Johnston, manager of the local branch of the Bank of America, received the charter on behalf of the Menlo Park Lions Club, and accepted the bell and gavel presented by the Palo Alto club.

Mr. Johnston, in his response made a dignified and inspiring address pointing out the aims of the Menlo Park Club, that will long linger in the minds of all present. Bruce McMullen, local attornew, and secretary of the club, read a telegram of congratulation on the installation of the new club. The official program was ended with the presentation of a Lion Key to Tom Cuff for extraordinary service in the organization of the new club.

Joseph Prein's comments over the loud speaker, which he had installed for the occasion, during the presentation of guests and the entertainment was the high light of the evening's fun. Bob Cain also had a hand in putting the program over.

Several dance acts were presented on the evenings program, the outstanding feature of which was the excellent work of the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Hara of this city, who were well received. The club was also indebted to Tail Twister Al Giannotti, for providing some very excellen entertainers from San Francisco. Al was also very much pleased when he was presented with an excellent badge of his office in the shape of a fine "Lion's Tali" made possible by the generosity of Director J. William Ryan of the local club.

The meeting included distinguished guests led by Mayor J. E. Cooper and his wife. The meeting also afforded for the first time a meeting of the wives of the new members. Mesdames Marris, Johnston, McMullen, Cuff, Prein, Giannotti, Morey, Gale, Doherty, Ryan, White Cleese, Pacioretti, Van Epern, Angus and Atell, were among those present.

Mrs. Isabelle Lindquist also was present and contributed materially to the program, through her musical talent.

Lions Clubs of San Francisco, San Carlos, Redwood City, Palo Alto, Sunnyvale, San Jose and San Leandro were represented on this occasion.

Play Safe

Spring is the time when housewives take their curtains down and do a thorough job of cleeaning up the house—and it is a good time for you, Mr. Motorist, to check over the car and make sure it won't be a death trap for your family. Better than 15% of all traffic accidents according to the National Safety Council, are caused by automobile defects. Bad brakes and deficient or glaring headlights are the most common of these. Do you know how it feels to press the brake pedal down to the floorboard, and to have your car keep on going? It is a sickening feeling. But it does not have to happen to you, if you take just a bit of precaution NOW. Remember, GOOD BRAKES PREVENT BAD BREAKS.

Business Imp. Club Hears Travel Talk

The Business Improvement Club of Menlo Park met for its regular monthly dinner meeting at Bertrand's Oak Wood Inn on the Middlefield Road Monday evening, and after enjoying a fine dinner, those fortunate enough to be present had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Frank Griffin, of the faculty of Sequoia High school tell of his travels.

During the course of his informal talk he told of conditions as they exist today in Soviet Russia, and described life as lived by the Russian people.

He told of being arrested and placed in jail in Japan, of being thrown down and treated roughly by the Arabs in the Holy land and of many other incidents that have happened to him in his travels.

He staed very plainly that he preferred to live in the good old United States of America, to any other place in the world.

Many of those present expressed a wish that he would again give a travel talk to the group soon.

Twin Foes of Democracy

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

With shocked amazement America has been reading the tragic tale of what is happening under Communism and Dictatorship abroad.

Trials that are travesties, wholesale executions, widespread death by bomb and gunfire, reckless disregard of treaty rights, of national rights and of human rights—so run dispatches from Europe and Asia.

What are the purposes behind all this? What brought it about?

Essentially both Dictatorship and Communism, whatever their pretensions, are twin foes of representative democracy, as we have always known it in America.

Their aim is to subordinate the individual to the State. Their theory is that the citizen is incapable of running his own life, thinking his own thoughts, choosing his own religion, producing his own and the nation's goods under his own direction.

These things, they believe, can be better directed by the politicians in power.

The men who founded America and built it into a great nation established a different pattern. They held that government was of, by and for the people, and that the politicians were the servants of the people, not the masters.

They believed in the intelligence, the enterprise, the ability and the freedom of the individual citizen, and planned a government to encourage those virtues. The American epic proves how right they were.

But there are among us theorists and bureaucrats who disagree with the founders and builders of America. They would discourage initiative and enterprise—by vitriolic attack, by confiscatory legislation, by destructive schemes of taxation. They seek to stifle enterprise by law. They prefer to see the politician in power, the individual citizen submerged.

That isn't the American ideal of representative democracy. It approaches the way of the totalitarian states.

If Americans want to know where that path can lead, let them study the headlines from abroad, then route our own course to avoid it.

Meet Your Son

Despite the honest and ardent desire of most every parent to make a pal of his son, the door to many an average boy's deepest, innermost confidence remains a locked door to his mother and father.

There are three general reasons why that is true. Ocassionally, there may be a sincere parental desire not to intrude upon a youngster's privacy— not to delve into the matters that most closely concern him.

More frequently, a general inability to understand each other perfectly even in ordinary everyday affairs may exist.

But in practically every case, on the record and off, it's simply because neither father nor mother knows how to induce a boy to open up and talk. They're content to stick to the casual, surface things, and let heir boy's real hinking take care of itself. They're embarrassed, perhaps, at the aloofness of their son when they make the first brusk effort to get close to him. And finally, they won't admit, even to themselves, that they don't know all about the things that go on in their own boy's mind— and conclude it's easier and simpler just to "let well enough alone."

The way around those obstacles of course, is for a parent never to close his mind on a yungster's earliest confidences, never to disregard his questioning and his curiosity, never to fail him when he depends on dad or mother for the right answer. Working with him in joint enterprises, talking with him about school affairs, about explorers, plants, stars, dogs or electricity— whatever intrigues him— is the surest way I know for parents to make themselves, easily and naturally, their son's closest confidants in all the imporant things.

A boy has got to learn, one way or another, the answers t a lot of questions, what to believe, what to doubt, and which way to set his course.

The doctrine that 'experience is a good teacher" has its advocates but the theory doesn't apply here. Proper parental understanding and reasonable parental steering are infinitely better, in the case of a boy. With you understanding his problems, and with his confidence in you, you can clear your boy's path and make unnecessary the gross, destructive experience that leave poison in a lad's system. You can give him instead, constructive experiences galore. You can let him have the tools to make things; you can let him work and earn money; you can let him camp and fish and try his hand at any constructive enterprise that interests him.

self;' annihilates pagan and Christian idolatry,—whatever is wrong in social, civil, criminal, political, and religious codes; equalizes the sexes; annuls the curse on man, and leaves nothing that can sin, suffer, be punished or destroyed."

Since the knowledge that God, divine Love, is indeed the Father of all, foreshadows the gloriously liberating effects mentioned in this illuminating passage, it is not impracticable, but divinely potent and natural. This broader realization of true brotherhood, wherein each one seeks his own progress in the good of another, because all are brethren, will in due course solve every national and international problem relating to frontiers, colonies, and economic supplies.

When in a human family there are discontent, lack of affection, and a general disregard for the progress and welfare of each member, it is easy to see that the whole structure of that family's success and well-being is liable to totter. Selfishness and joylessness have undesirable effects on health and happiness. But if one and all have a common basis for true affection and selfless service, the family will prosper, and will steadily increase in health, freedom, and tranquility.

Thus it should be with the great universal family—the brotherhood of nations. Each one should work for the general good, realizing that all the children of God have their rightful place in the divine plan, wherein there is fullest liberty, progress, and true prosperity for all. Since God is good, good is inexhaustible and permanent, and is given in equal measure to all by the loving Father. But in order that boundless good may be fully utilized for the benefit of every nation, man must be clearly understood as not material and imperfect, embodying mortal passions and hatreds, but as wholly spiritual and perfect, the reflection of God and the embodiment of all right ideas.

When love, reflecting the divine, governs the hearts of men and is practised in daily life, every human difficulty will be dissolved. The full understanding of the ever-presence of divine Love is destined to dispel all sense of discord, whether of an individual or a collective nature, banish fear and distrust, and put an end to political intrigue and the desire for alliances and counteralliances. As humanity wakens to recognize "one Father with His universal family, held in the gospel of Love" (ibid., p. 577), good will and lasting peace will be established on earth. — The Christian Science Monitor.
